Notes:

1. Tables on Monetary Statistics (Tables 3.1 to 3.18, 4.1 to 4.6 and 6.11 to 6.12) have been revised to conform to the IMF's Monetary and Financial Statistics Manual.
2. From May 1995, changes in Tables 3.1 to 3.4 are attributable to the disaggregation of foreign currency deposits. The broadest measure of money (M4) – is made up of M3 plus foreign currency accounts.
3. Effective December 1993, the valuation of BoBCs in Table 4.5 was changed from face value to discounted value. The face value method included unearned interest (i.e., interest which has not yet accrued). The discounted value method values BoBCs as of the date of the statement, excluding unearned interest. Therefore, the value of BoBCs for December 1992, as shown, has been recalculated using the discounted value method for comparison purposes.
4. Following the introduction of BoBCs on May 1, 1991, the monetary aggregates series have been revised back to 1981.
5. M1 now includes only currency and current account deposits at commercial banks. Call account deposits with commercial banks are included under notice and time deposits, and thus shown as a component of M2.
6. Effective June 1992, Botswana Cooperative Bank (BCB) was classified as a commercial bank for purposes of monetary statistics. It was liquidated on August 16, 1995.
7. For some tables, numbers do not add up to stated totals due to rounding off.
8. In line with the 1993 System of National Accounts (SNA), the Central Statistics Office (CSO) revised some aspects of the national accounts. This involves significant elements of reclassification as well as changes made due to improved information and data collection methods. In addition, the CSO has made available quarterly estimates of GDP. These new estimates appear in Tables 1.2, 1.4, 1.6 and 1.8.
9. Some tables in this Report have been re-ordered to improve the presentation. Tables 5.8 and 7.7 in the 2001 Annual Report have been phased out. Table 4.8 has been temporarily taken out, but will be included in the coming reports once data is available.
